ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This is the twenty-eighth of a series of new-style county histories which will include all of the 102 counties of Illinois, and, ultimately, all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. The project, specializing in low-altitude aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads and with brief historical narratives added, is known as The American Aerial County History Series. For a list of already-published volumes in Illinois, see back of title page of this book. Each of the volumes is being written by John Drury, author of Old Illinois Houses, Historic Midwest Houses, Midwest Heritage, etc., and member of the American Association for State and Local History and the Illinois State Historical Society.

STORY OF WILL COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Located in the northeast portion of Illinois, just beyond the great Chicago metropolitan zone, Will County is one of the leading industrial counties of the Prairie State, due mainly to the many manufacturing plants of its principal city, Joliet, tenth largest city of Illinois. With a total population of 134,336, which places it 186th in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States, Will County, in 1947 (when the last business census was taken), turned out articles, goods, products, etc., amounting to $101,449,000, whereas the value of all of its farm products (livestock, crops, poultry, dairy products) sold about the same time amounted to $20,647,000.

In addition to its numerous wallpaper mills, which produce nearly half of the nation's output of wallpaper, Will County contains the Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants, vast munitions factories built by the United States government during World War II at a total cost of $70,000,000. In the county also may be found, on the one hand, Stateville Penitentiary, largest of Illinois penal institutions (the old state prison at Joliet is still in use), and, on the other hand, such outstanding seats of learning as St. Francis Girls' College, Joliet Junior College and Lewis College of Science and Technology.

Will County is diagonally traversed by that great inland water route, the Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway. Important links of that waterway are the Des Plaines River and the Chicago Sanitary & Ship Canal, which come together at Lockport city and form a single navigable stream that passes through Joliet city and connects with the Illinois River just south of the county line. Near this point, at the ancient canal town of Channahon, begins the Illinois and Michigan Canal State Parkway, a scenic drive that follows the course of the original canal built through here more than a hundred years ago.

In the eastern portion of the county, among fertile farms and rich pasture lands, lies the thriving village of Crete, known far beyond the borders of the county for its Lincoln Fields Race Track. This horse-racing track, patronized by thousands of Chicagoans during the racing season, is one of the most modern in America.

Among notable men of Will County's past history have been John Mitchell, an outstanding American labor leader; Anton J. Cermak, mayor of Chicago who was killed in an assassin's attempt on the life of President Franklin D. Roosevelt; Harlow N. Higinbotham, partner of Marshall Field and president of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893; the Reverend Jesse Walker, pioneer Indian missionary known in Illinois history as the "Daniel Boone of Methodism," Joel A. Matteson, early governor of Illinois;

JOLLIET AND MARQUETTE

First recorded white men to view the area that now is Will County were those two great French explorers, Louis Jolliet and Father Jacques Marquette. On their return journey to Quebec after having discovered the upper Mississippi Valley in 1673, the two men followed the course of the Illinois River from the Mississippi River to Lake Michigan --- the route of today's Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway.

After passing the mouth of the Kankakee River, just beyond Will County, Jolliet and Marquette paddled their canoes upstream on the Des Plaines River. And thus they came within view of the site occupied today by the huge, sprawling Will County city that bears the name of Father Marquette's companion. Continuing their journey up the Des Plaines, the explorers reached a point near the present intersection of 55th Street and Harlem Avenue, in Chicago, and here they portaged overland a few miles to the Chicago River.

Having thus discovered the great American interior, a region now familiar to us all as the Midwest, Louis Jolliet and Father Marquette claimed it for their sovereign, King Louis XIV of France, and thereafter it became a colony known as New France. This was followed, in 1680, by the empire-building expedition headed by Robert De La Salle - a party of some thirty soldiers, missionaries and artisans who came into the Illinois country by way of the Kankakee River. Thus La Salle and his followers were the second group of white men to view future Will County, the southwest corner of which is traversed by the Kankakee River.

A little less than a hundred years later, however, the vast wilderness domain discovered by Jolliet and fortified by De La Salle came into the possession of the British. This was at the close of the French and Indian War in 1763. By that time the original thirteen American colonies on the Atlantic seaboard were firmly established.

After the American Revolution of 1775-1783, during which George Rogers Clark and a handful of American backwoodsmen captured key British military posts in what later became Indiana and Illinois, there was established the Northwest Territory, so-called because it lay northwest of the Ohio River. It was out of this territory there later came the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota.

TERRITORIAL DAYS

When the Territory of Illinois was created in 1809 its population was so scarce that only two counties were organized within its boundaries, one of which St. Clair, occupied most of upper Illinois --- then a wilderness region in which lay future Will County. Then, in 1812, St. Clair County was reduced to its present size (it now includes the city of East St. Louis) and a new county, Madison, was organized and embraced practically all of upper Illinois.

When still another new county, Edwards, was set up in 1815, it included almost all of the eastern half of Illinois. A year later there was organized Crawford County and this, in turn, occupied much of eastern Illinois --- a situation that continued until Illinois was admitted to statehood in 1818.

As more and more counties were formed in the years just after Illinois became a state, the area now occupied by Will County was part of one new county after another. Finally, when Will was organized in 1836, it was carved out of the southern portion of Cook and a northern section of Iroquois. At that date, Will was larger than at present, its south boundary line being the Kankakee River. But it was reduced to its present size when Kankakee County was established in 1853.

INDIAN OCCUPATION

Because of the Des Plaines and other rivers which flow, or partly flow, through it, the Will County region had from remotest times been a favorite stamping ground of the Indians. They not only used these rivers as travel routes but hunted in the woods along the streams and even established villages at suitable places.

"When the first white men came to Joliet Township," says The History of Will County (1878), "there were plenty of Indians in the present limits of Will County, and, though of the friendly Pottawatomies, yet the very fact that the earliest settlers were surrounded by savages whose ferocity when aroused is scarcely equaled by wild beasts, coupled with the fact that low mutterings were now and then borne to the settlers of threatening troubles with the Sacs --- all of these circumstances conspired to divest the wilderness of its romance and render the everyday life of the settlers unpleasant, to say the least."

After pointing out that the Pottawatomies of the Will County countryside had to be constantly watched because of their petty thievery habits, the historical work says further that a Pottawatomie village of considerable size was in existence on the Du Page River, just below the present town of Plainfield, when the first white settlers arrived there in the late 1820's. But this village, as well as all others in the locality, disappeared after the Black Hawk War of 1832, a conflict which resulted in the final removal of the Indians from all of Illinois.

JOLIET MOUND

In early times, there existed just below the site of Joliet city a conspicuous hill that was anciently known as Joliet Mound. It was about one-fourth of a mile long, two or three hundred feet wide, and sixty feet high. Because of its rather symmetrical shape, this hill at first was believed to have been made by the Mound Builders, a prehistoric race of natives who built mounds in which to bury their dead. Later study, however, revealed that Joliet Mound was of natural origin; that it was an alluvial deposit of gravel, boulders and clay.

Of particular interest to us is that when the first white settlers came to the region they learned that this hill was known as Joliet Mound from earliest times, and that this name was derived from an old river tradition that Jolliet and Marquette had encamped on the hill when they first journeyed up the Des Plaines River in 1673. No proof of this has ever been found, however, nor has any evidence been produced that the Indian chief, Pontiac, was assassinated on Joliet Mound during an Indian council meeting there in 1769 (he was killed in that year at Cahokia, below the future site of East St. Louis).

DU PAZHE TRADING POST

Although the area that now is Will County was familiar to countless numbers of French explorers, missionaries, voyageurs and coureurs du bois as they passed up and down the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River, yet none of them stopped in the locality until the arrival, about 1790, of a French-Canadian trader named Du Pazhe. It was after him the Du Page River and Du Page County were named.

Some seven or eight years after the close of the American Revolution, Du Pazhe came down the Du Page River and established a trading post at the Pottawatomie village near which the present town of Planfield was later established. In doing so, however, he did not become the first permanent settler of future Will County. He shortly left for other parts, and his trading post subsequently came into the control of another French-Canadian, one Vetel Vermette, who operated it for the American Fur Company (founded by John Jacob Astor). But Vermette did not remain long either, and in time all traces of this post were gone.

'HUBBARD'S TRAIL'

Perhaps the first American to become well acquainted with the Will County countryside was Gurdon S. Hubbard, who also was a fur trader. What is now State I, principal highway through the eastern portion of Will County, had its origin in Hubbard's Trail, an early wagon route between Danville and Chicago, later extended to Vincennes, Indiana.

It was over this trail that Hubbard led his pack horses, carrying furs, to the market at Chicago. He first began using the route in the early 1820's. About this time, too, Hubbard acquired droves of hogs and allowed them to roam over the prairies between Danville and Crete. These he would round up with a crew of "pigboys" and drive to the slaughter house at Chicago. Later, Hubbard's Trail became known as the Vincennes Trace because of the many Hoosier farmers who traveled it on their journeys to and from Chicago. By that time, Hubbard had left the countryside and become one of the founding fathers of Chicago.

FIRST SETTLER

In his account of the beginnings of Will County (as printed in The History of Will County, Illinois, 1878), George H. Woodruff tells us that it was none other than the Reverend Jesse Walker, famous in Illinois annals as the "Daniel Boone of Methodism," who was the first settler within the bounds of the present county. The Reverend Jesse Walker was a pioneer Methodist preacher who went about setting up missions in the Indian villages of northern Illinois.

A native of Virginia, where he studied for the ministry, the Reverend Mr. Walker first came west to Illinois in 1806. With him was another young minister, the Reverend William McKendree, who was afterwards to become a Methodist bishop in Illinois and whose name was to be given to McKendree College at Lebanon, in the southern part of the state. The two young ministers felt that the Illinois countryside, which at that time was part of Indiana Territory, offered good opportunities for missionary work among the Indian tribes of the region.

It was not until 1821, however, that the Reverend Mr. Walker received his assignment for this work from the Methodist Conference. By that time Illinois had been admitted to statehood. After preaching at numerous Indian camps along the Illinois River and in adjacent territory, the Reverend Mr. Walker, we are told, arrived at the Pottawatomie village just south of the site of Plainfield in 1826 and there established something of a permanent headquarters.

From this base in future Will County, the pioneer minister conducted, in the years following, the Fox River Mission and the Des Plaines Mission. And it was here this sturdy old missionary came to the end of his days in 1835 at the age of sixty-nine. He was buried in an old cemetery near Plainfield, but in 1850 his remains were removed to the new Plainfield cemetery and a monument placed over the grave. An inscription on the stone reads: "At the Rock River Conference, in 1850, his remains were removed to this place by his Sons in the Gospel, who erected this stone to transmit his revered name to coming generations."

WALKER'S GROVE

Soon after the Reverend Mr. Walker established his headquarters mission at the Pottawatomie village south of Plainfield, one of his daughters became the wife of Captain James Walker, a Tennessean who moved north to Ottawa and who, although bearing the same name, was not related to the minister's family. Thereafter, Captain James Walker became a neighbor of his father-in-law at the Pottawatomie mission. In time this place came to be known as Walker's Grove --- the first white settlement in what is now Will County.

When Captain Walker first came to Walker's Grove, he brought with him from Ottawa a portable horse-power mill, and this he set up on the Du Page River near the grove for temporary use. He then built a saw mill, and it was lumber from this mill, we are told, that was used in the construction of Chicago's first frame house. It was built by P. F. W. Peck, pioneer merchant, at the southeast corner of presentday La Salle Street and Wacker Drive on a lot for which Peck paid $80.

EARLY SETTLERS

As we have seen, the Reverend Mr. Walker first came to the Plainfield region in 1826. He was followed by his son-in-law, Captain James Walker. Then, in 1830, there came to Walker's Grove a Vermonter named Reuben Flagg, accompanied by his family. With him, also, was Jedediah Wooley, Sr., from Detroit, who bought out the claim of the one-time fur trader here, Vetel Vermette. Two others who settled at Walker's Grove in 1830 were Timothy B. Clarke and Thomas Covel, both from New England.

In 1831 another Methodist missionary arrived at the Walker settlement on the Du Page River. He was the Reverend Stephen R. Beggs, who, a few years later, founded the first Methodist church in Joliet city. About the same time that the Reverend Mr. Beggs came, five newcomers built cabins in the Hickory Creek region east of future Joliet city. These were William Rice, Joseph Brown, Lewis Kerchival, William Cougar and Aaron Friend. Most of these early settlers of the county were accompanied by their families.

Another who came to the Hickory Creek area at this early date was Judge Davidson, formerly a probate judge in Indiana. One of his daughters married Harlow N. Higinbotham, son of another Will County pioneer and, in later life, a partner of Marshall Field and president of the great World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893.

In addition to Walker's Grove and the Hickory Creek colony, a new settlement now appeared in what is today Du Page Township. First to arrive here was Stephen J. Scott, who came in 1830. Others who followed Scott during the years 1830-1832 were Israel Blodgett, Pierce Hawley, Robert Strong, John Dudley, Ralph Stowell, Harry Boardman, Seth Wescott, the Reverend Isaac Scarrett, Lester Peet, Simon Terrill, Samuel Goodrich and John Barber. The last-named founded the present hamlet of Barber's Corners.

By this time, also, several pioneers arrived in what is now Joliet Township. Both Robert Stevens and David Maggard made claims here in 1830 and brought their families to the area in 1831. Others who settled here in 1831 were Philip Scott, William Bilsland, Major Robert Cook, Daniel Robb, Jesse Cook and Reason Zarley.

It was in 1831, also, that the first arrivals came to the area below present Joliet city in what are now Channahon and Jackson townships. In that year log cabins were built by Charles Reed (afterwards to become the first settler on the site of Joliet city), Joseph Shoemaker, Wesley Jenkins, John and Thomas Coon, the two Kirkpatricks, Thomas Underwood, Eli Shoemaker, Charles Longmire, James Hemphill, Peter Eib and sons, Archibald Crawl, Daniel Haight, John and Samuel Catron, Theophilus and Robert Watkins, and Henry, George and Lewis Linebarger.

BLACK HAWK WAR

When the Black Hawk War broke out in 1832, the tide of immigration into future Will County was brought to a standstill. Although no battles of the war were fought on Will County soil, yet those residing at Walker's Grove and other settlements of the region were thrown into a state of terror, and, eventually, were forced to flee to Fort Dearborn at Chicago.

Before escaping to Chicago, however, the settlers of the area gathered at Walker's Grove and there converted the substantial log house of the Reverend Mr. Beggs into a temporary fort, surrounding it with barricades made of dismantled outbuildings, barns and fences. While the settlers were huddled at "Fort Beggs," some of them suggested they might obtain greater safety at Ottawa. But when Mrs. Azariah Flagg pointed out the dangers of such a trip, the idea was abandoned. It was later learned that Mrs. Flagg's arguments saved the lives of the settlers, for a detachment of Indians had been waiting on the Ottawa road to massacre them. At the end of the Black Hawk War, all Indians were removed from Illinois to government reservations west of the Mississippi River.

TOWN OF "JULIET" PLATTED

Now that the Black Hawk war was over, a greater number of Easteners than before poured into the Will County area and other parts of Illinois. It was at this time that Charles Reed, who had earlier (1831) settled in the Will County region, decided to build a flour mill on the Des Plaines River just north of Reed's Grove. When Reed completed this mill in 1833 and moved to the site, he became the first settler of the place that now is Joliet city.

A year after Charles Reed took up permanent residence here, James B. Campbell arrived on the scene and immediately laid plans for the founding of a town at the Reed mill site. He was then serving as treasurer of the Board of Canal Commissioners, a body created by the Illinois state legislature in 1829 for the purpose of building a canal from the Chicago River to the Illinois River.

Although the canal was destined not to be completed until 1848, James B. Campbell was unaware of this when he first came to the Reed mill site. And so, in 1834, he platted a town here and gave it the name of "Juliet." Several hundred people attended the sale of Campbell's lots, which sold from $19 to $108 per lot.

In George H. Woodruff's historical narrative of Will County, we find these words: "Campbell's town was recorded as 'Juliet,' whether after Shakespeare's heroine, or after his own daughter's name, or by mistake for Joliet, the writer cannot determine. There are various theories; take your choice."

For more than ten years after it was founded, the town bore the official name of Juliet. It was so recorded on the town plat, and it was so designated by the Illinois state legislature when that body named it as county seat upon the organization of Will County in 1836.

If James B. Campbell was so romantic minded as to name his new town after Shakespeare's immortal heroine, then equally romantic-minded was the citizen who bestowed the name of Romeo on a new village just north of Lockport. Today, Romeoville (as it is now known) has a population of 147 and is a familiar place to motorists on the Chicago-Joliet Road.

Had it not been for an ex-President of the United States, Joliet might still be known as Juliet today. In the year 1842 no less a personage than former President Martin Van Buren visited Juliet on a political tour of the Midwest. On noticing the difference in the name of the city and that of its most conspicuous landmark, old Joliet Mound, the former chief executive suggested that "Joliet" would be a more appropriate name for the city than the one in current use.

But it was not until three years later that the city had its name officially changed. Active in bringing about the change was Dr. Albert W. Bowen, the city's first physician and one of the founding fathers of Will County. A legislative act making the new name official was introduced into the General Assembly by State Representative David L. Gregg of Joliet. He later became secretary of state under Governor Augustus C. French, and, subsequently, was appointed Commissioner of the Sandwich Islands (Hawaiian Islands) by President Franklin Pierce.

In closing his story of the origin of the present name of the city, Historian Woodruff says this: "And here we wish to notify all people, both in America and Europe, that the proper way to spell it is --- Joliet. Please do not waste so many l's and t's and e's when you write it, and although we are a jolly people, please do not pronounce it Jolly-ett, but Zho-liet; accent on first syllable. If you wish to go to the root of the subject, the primary meaning of the word is pretty, which makes it all the more appropriate for our city."

WILL COUNTY ORGANIZED

By the year 1835, so many settlers had staked out claims on either side of the Des Plaines River that talk was heard on the possibility of forming a new county in the region. Soon enough this talk was translated into action. Among leaders of the movement to form a new county were Captain James Walker, son-in-law of the Reverend Jesse Walker, first permanent settler of the county, and Dr. Albert W. Bowen, who, as we have seen, was Joliet's first physician (as well as first postmaster and first real estate salesman).

After petitions were circulated among the settlers by Dr. Bowen and a few others, the matter of a new county was brought before the state legislature late in 1835. That body voted in favor of the petitioners, and on January 12, 1836, the new county of Will was created. It was signed into law by Governor Joseph Duncan. The bill for the creation of the new county was introduced by Captain James Walker, who had been elected a state representative.

CONRAD WILL: PIONEER LEGISLATOR

When the new county was created, it was named after Conrad Will, a distinguished member of the state legislature who had died shortly before the county was organized. Actually, Conrad Will was one of the founding fathers of Illinois. In the beginning, he served as Territorial Recorder of Jackson County. Then, as a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1818, he helped in the founding of the new State of Illinois. Later, Conrad Will served for nine successive terms in the Illinois General Assembly.

COUNTY'S FIRST OFFICERS

At the new county's first election, held in March, 1836, the following were elected to public office: Holder Sisson, Thomas Durham and Captain James Walker, county commissioners; Robert Stevens, sheriff; E. M. Daggett, coroner; and George H. Woodruff, recorder. The last-named was to live to a ripe old age and write an authentic, as well as sometimes witty, historical narrative of the county, which appears in The History of Will County, published by Wm. Le Baron, Jr., & Company at Chicago in 1878.

When the new County Commissioners held their first official meeting on March 14, 1836, in the Juliet Hotel (then operated by Thomas H. Blackburn), they appointed Levi Jenks as county clerk and school commissioner, and Charles Clement as county treasurer. They also divided the county into ten election precincts. Furthermore, they fixed the rates for tavern charges --- 25 cents for a meal, 12 1/2 cents for a night's lodging, and 6 1/4 cents for drinks.

FIRST COURTHOUSE

One year after Will County was organized, its citizens saw the completion of their first courthouse at "Joliet." It was a combination courthouse and jail that cost $2,000 to build. Two members of the contracting firm that erected this first courthouse were the brothers John L. and Richard L. Wilson, early Joliet merchants who in later years went to Chicago and founded the Chicago Journal, a newspaper that lasted for more than a century.

Our local historian, George H. Woodruff, says this first courthouse was also a community and social center. "The first Baptist Church held meetings there under the pastorate of Elder Solomon Knapp and others," says Woodruff. He adds: "How many and how varied the scenes which transpired within those old Court House walls --- County and Circuit courts, temperance and political meetings, the pleadings both of lawyers and preachers, the weeping of the condemned and the rejoicings of the acquitted, the groans of sinners and shouts of the redeemed --- all these have been heard here, but all are silent now."

LOCKPORT FOUNDED

Although that great engineering project of bygone Will County days, the Illinois and Michigan Canal, was started as long ago as 1836 (the possibility of such a canal was first envisioned by the French explorer, Louis Jolliet, in 1673), yet it was not completed until 1848. In the meantime, Lockport city had been founded as part of the canal project. It was laid out in 1837 by Colonel William B. Archer, member of the Board of Canal Commissioners created by the Illinois General Assembly.

In platting the village, Colonel Archer and his associate commissioners had in mind the establishment of canal headquarters here. A canal office was later built and from it work was directed on the "deep cut" from Chicago River to the Des Plaines River at Lockport. Colonel Archer also built a road from Chicago to Lockport. Still in existence, Archer Road has been made famous by the popular "Mr. Dooley" books of the celebrated author, the late Finley Peter Dunne.

ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN CANAL

As we have indicated, the old Illinois and Michigan Canal, completed in 1848, was a great engineering project. It also marked the beginning of Will County as an industrial locality. Thereafter, the cities of Joliet and Lockport quickly expanded in population and became manufacturing and shipping centers of high rank on the canal route. As a first benefit of the canal, Joliet became one of the country's leading shipping points for building limestone. From here went out limestone blocks as far as New York; from Joliet also came the limestone used in the building of the Rock Island Arsenal, the Indiana penitentiary, and the State House and Lincoln Monument at Springfield.

FIRST RAILROAD

Just four years after the completion of the Illinois and Michigan Canal, the citizens of Will County got their first glimpse of that new form of transportation -- the Iron Horse. This was a wood-burning locomotive, with a train of "cars," of the newly-organized Chicago & Rock Island Railroad, completed between Chicago and Joliet in 1852. One of the officials of that road was Nelson D. Elwood, pioneer Will County resident, and, several years after the building of the railroad, mayor of Joliet city. Among the contractors who constructed the railroad was Joel A. Matteson, another pioneer of the county, afterwards to become governor of Illinois. Although the coming of railroads to Joliet soon ended the usefulness of the canal, they made possible the city's second industrial phase -- that of steel manufacture.

OLD PRISON

Still in use, but now something of a landmark, is the old Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet. Work on this prison was started in 1857 and completed a few years later. It was built of limestone quarried from its site, and in its day was regarded as a model penal institution. At the present time, the old jail is an administrative unit of the new Stateville prison, erected several decades ago in the open countryside north of Joliet city. Largest of the state's penal institutions, Stateville prison stands in the midst of the 2,200-acre State Penitentiary Farm. More than 4,000 prisoners, all men, are confined at Stateville.

THE CIVIL WAR

When President Lincoln sounded his call for 75,000 volunteers at the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861, Will County quickly responded to the summons with more than its quota of men and money for the Union cause. At the end of the conflict in 1865, it was found that Will County had contributed between 3,000 and 4,000 men to the Union ranks, and that more than 500 of these had lost their lives on the field of battle.

HARLOW N. HIGINBOTHAM

A Will County native son, Harlow N. Higinbotham was one of the most distinguished citizens of Chicago during the glamorous 1890's. He was a partner of Marshall Field in the operation of Field's world-famous department store in Chicago. In 1893 the former Will County resident was elected president of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. Higinbotham was born on his father's farm just east of Joliet city. Part of the elder Higinbotham's farm is occupied today by Higinbotham Woods, a natural woodland recreation area of 238 acres.

BRAIDWOOD COAL MINES

During the 1880's the Will County city of Braidwood was at the center of one of the largest coal-mining areas in America. From the ranks of the thousands of miners who worked the Braidwood field in those times came numerous figures of national prominence, among them John Mitchel, labor leader; Dan McGlaughlin, another union leader as well as mining executive; W. D. Ryan, arbitrator of mining disputes; and John H. Walker, an outstanding state legislator.

A young immigrant from Bohemia who worked in the Braidwood mines was Anton J. Cermak. As is generally known, he grew up to become mayor of Chicago, and, in 1933, was fatally wounded at Miami, Florida, by an assassin who attempted to take the life of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

JOLIET HIGH SCHOOL

When the Joliet High School was completed in 1899, citizens of the county gazed with pride on a commodious stone edifice designed in the Tudor-Gothic architectural style. In the years following, this institution won national fame through its school band. The Joliet instrumental group won national high school band contests so often that eventually it was barred from the field, although allowed to attend the contests on an honorary basis. Another unusual feature of the school came into being when the class of 1906 presented it with six murals by William Panhallow Henderson, painter, architect and muralist. The murals portray the activities of Joliet and Marquette among the Indians of the Illinois country.

PILCHER PARK ARBORETUM

In the Hickory Creek area just east of Joliet city lies Pilcher Park Arboretum, a woodland tract that has become one of the outstanding sights of Will County. It was presented to the people of Joliet in 1922 by Robert Pilcher. A statue of Pilcher, by the noted sculptor Leonard Crunelle, stands at the entrance of the Joliet park system, which includes not only the Pilcher arboretum but the Bird Haven, Higginbotham Woods, Hobbs Parkway and Highland Park.

ST. FRANCIS GIRLS' COLLEGE

A leading educational institution of northern Illinois is St. Francis Girls' College at Joliet. It has an average enrollment of some 400 students. The college was founded in 1925 by the Sisters of St. Francis of Mary Immaculate. It is an outgrowth of St. Francis Academy, a preparatory school for girls established here in 1869. Other institutions of higher learning in Joliet are Joliet Junior College, with an enrollment of 800, and Lewis College of Science and Technology (Lockport).

LAKES-TO-GULF WATERWAY

As we have already noted, Will County is traversed by the Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway. It was in 1930 that this great inland water route between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River was taken over by the United States government and brought to final completion. First of the series of locks and dams on the waterway is located at Lockport city, where also is situated the giant hydroelectric power plant of the Chicago Sanitary District. Just below Joliet may be found the Brandon Road Lock and Dam, as well as the Brandon Road Pool. A few miles further south lies the old canal town of Channahon, near which the Des Plaines and Kankakee rivers come together to form the Illinois River.

HISTORIC LANDMARKS

When staff architects of the Historic American Buildings Survey, a governmental agency sponsored by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, made scale drawings of landmarks in Illinois, they included three structures in Will County.

These structures were the old Canal Lock House near Channahon, one of the stone locks of the early Illinois and Michigan Canal in the same vicinity, and the ancient Green House in the village of Plainfield. When the scale drawings of these structures were completed under the supervision of the noted Chicago architect, Earl Reed, they were placed in the archives of the Library of Congress and the Burnham Architectural Library of the Chicago Art Institute.

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK

One of the four nationally-famous race tracks of the Chicago metropolitan region is located in Will County. This is Lincoln Fields Race Track, situated in the eastern part of the county adjacent to the village of Crete. Thousands of Chicagoans visit this track each September to bet on some of the finest thoroughbreds in America. The track is served not only by the Illinois Central System and State I but by the Will County Airport.

ELWOOD AND KANKAKEE ORDNANCE PLANTS

In the open country south of Joliet city, occupying hundreds of acres, are located the Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants. These were built by the United States government during World War II at a total cost of $70,000,000. They occupy more than half of Florence Township and Channahon Township. These munitions plants are served by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Wabash and the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio railroads and by numerous state highways.

"WHO'S WHO" IN WILL COUNTY

In the latest (1955) edition of that standard reference work, Who's Who in America, we find biographies-in-brief of eleven Will County residents, nine of whom live in Joliet city. A resident of Lockport city is Rear Admiral Herbert J. Grassie, U.S.N. (retired), who, since 1949, has been president of the Lewis College of Science and Technology at Lockport. A naval veteran of the first and second World Wars, Admiral Grassie was formerly commander of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

One who recently lived in Joliet was the late Dr. Grant Houston, a leading American surgeon. He died in 1953. He began the practice of medicine at Joliet in 1894. Dr. Houston was a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He was also a past president of the Joliet Sunday Evening Club.

Among those in Who's Who in America now residing in Joliet are Bishop Martin D. McNamara, head of the Catholic Diocese of Joliet; Joseph E. Ragen, warden of Stateville prison since 1942; John F. Lux, editor and publisher of the Joliet Times-Herald since 1932; and Frederick W. Woodruff, former president and now chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Joliet.

Additional names in the Joliet group are Mrs. Olive Remington Goldman, assistant director of Region V of the Federal Civil Defense Administration; Morton H. Hollingsworth, member of the Republican National Committee and president of the Shreve Realty Company; John M. Joyce, senior partner of the Joyce Seven-Up Company and president of the National Bank of Joliet; John C. Weigel, former president of the Illinois State Civil Service Commission; and John C. McKeever, president of the Gerlach-Barklow Company

WILL COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of latest published United States census figures, a statistical profile may be drawn of Will County as it was in 1950 --- or in mid-twentieth century. These figures showed that the county then had a total population of 134,336, which placed it 186th in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States. The 1950 figure also showed an increase of 17.6 per cent over the 1940 figure

Of all of the county's many cities and towns, Wilmington showed the largest increase in population from 1940 to 1950. In the latter year its population was 3,354 --- an increase of 74.6 per cent over its 1940 figure. Wilmington is located just south of the great Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants built by the United States government during World War II.

Next largest increase of population occurred at Lockport city, which in 1950 had a total population of 4,955 --- an increase of 42.6 percent over its 1940 figure. At Lockport are located the main lock and dam of the Illinois Waterway, the giant hydroelectric power plant of the Chicago Sanitary District and the gas and oil refining works of the Texas Company (which employs 2,000 persons).

That part of Steger village located in Will County also experienced a sharp increase in population, its 1950 figure being 2,284 --- an increase of 29.2 per cent over its 1940 figure. About an equal number of inhabitants, and an equal per centage rise, are applicable to that part of Steger village lying in Cook County.

The county's largest city and its seat of justice, Joliet, had in 1950 a total population of 51,601 --- an increase of 21.8 per cent over its 1940 census return. Substantial population increases were also noted for such other communities of Will County as Forest Park, Ingalls Park, Lidice-Raynor Park, Ridgewood, Rockdale Junction and Fairmount.

Occupying a land area of 845 square miles, the county's density of population in 1950 was 159 inhabitants per square mile. That Will is more of an urban county than a rural one was evidenced by the classification of its citizens --- 90,475 were dwellers in cities, 31,519 were dwellers in towns and villages, and but 12,360 were dwellers on farms. The population figures showed further that there were 13,209 infants under five years of age in the county in 1950, and 10,987 persons 65 years old and over. The median age was given as 32.1 years. Also, there were 5,860 residents of the county who in 1950 were either traveling abroad or temporarily residing in some other county of the United States. The total number of potential voters then was 89,185.

Under the heading of vital statistics, the county in 1950 had 2,896 live births, 1,344 deaths (including 91 infants), and 1,276 marriages. The total number of families in the county then (two or more persons related by marriage or blood) was 33,760, and the median income of all of these families was $3,698; more than 14 per cent had incomes of less than $2,000, while 25.5 per cent had incomes of $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, the county had a total of 20,625 young persons between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Within this group were 13,380 between the ages of seven and thirteen years (primary school age), and 96.5 per cent of these were enrolled in primary schools. There were 5,850 young persons between the ages of fourteen and seventeen (high school age), and 86.6 per cent of these were enrolled in high schools. Of all persons in the county twenty-five years old and over, it was found that the median number of school years they completed was 9.0. A little more than 7 per cent completed less than five grades, while 30.2 per cent completed high school training. The institutional population (inmates of homes for delinquent children, prisons, etc.) was 5,040.

On the subject of labor, Will County in 1950 had a total potential labor force (persons fourteen years old and over) of 102,558. Actually employed, however, were 52,422, of which 75.4 per cent were males and 25.6 per cent females. Of the total number of employed, 16,769 were engaged in manufacturing, 8,439 in retail and wholesale trade, 5,800 in transportation, communication and other public utilities, 3,548 in agriculture, 3,531 in professional and related services, 3,052 in construction, 2,412 in business and personal services, 1,324 in finance, insurance and real estate, and 412 in mining. The 1950 labor figures were summed up by showing that 33.4 per cent of the county's total employed were engaged in manufacturing, while 7.1 per cent were engaged in agriculture.

With reference to housing, Will County in 1950 had a total of 38,683 housing units (in 1940 it had 29,979). The median number of rooms per unit was given as 4.9. More than 71 per cent were one-dwelling unit detached structures (including occupied trailers), 17.7 per cent were built in 1940 or later, 61.4 per cent had hot running water with private toilet and bath, and the median number of persons per unit was given as 3.1. The housing figures showed further that 64.9 per cent were owner-occupied, 2.7 per cent were occupied by non-white households, 73.7 per cent had central heating, 91.3 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and 98.2 per cent had radios. There were a total of 35,210 non-farm dwelling units in the county, and the median value of these was given as $7,961. The median gross monthly rental of renter-occupied houses was given as $46.02.

In 1948, when the last United States business census was taken, Will County had a total of 1,500 retail stores which employed 5,766 persons and which grossed $112,695 in sales. The largest number in the retail field were food stores, which totaled 416 and which grossed $30,767,000 in sales. Next largest were eating and drinking places, which totaled 393 and which grossed $10,732,000 in sales. In 1948, also, there were 129 wholesale establishments in the county which employed 1,019 persons and which grossed $68,047,000 in sales. In that same year, furthermore, there were 402 personal, business and repair services establishments which employed 1,004 persons and which had receipts amounting to $6,697,000.

As has been explained before, Will County is more of a manufacturing locality than an agricultural one. In 1947, when the last United States manufacturing census was taken, the county had a total of 163 industrial plants which employed 14,387 persons who were paid wages and salaries amounting to $43,383,000. and which produced articles, goods, materials, etc., in the total amount of $101,449,000.

If Will County is a leading Illinois industrial county, it is also of importance as an agricultural area. In 1950 the county had a total of 2,937 farms, of which 2,494 were classified as commercial farms. The figures showed further that 38.0 per cent of all farms were operated by tenants. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $31,080. In 1949, when such figures were last obtained, the value of all farm products sold in the county (livestock, crops, poultry, dairy products) amounted to $20,647,000. In that same year, farm expenditures amounted to $2,251,000 for livestock and poultry feed and $877,000 for hired labor.

Total bank deposits (including individuals, partnerships and corporations) of Will County, as of December 30, 1950, amounted to $74,975,000. Total savings capital of its three savings and loan associations, as of the same date, amounted to $17,083,000.

CITY OF JOLIET

Principal city and seat of justice of Will County is Joliet, located in the western portion of the county on the Des Plaines River (a link of the important Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway). As the story of Joliet is largely the story of Will County, details of the city's past will be found in the opening historical narrative of the present work.

An industrial, railroad and river-shipping center of high rank in Illinois, the city of Joliet, situated thirty-five miles southwest of Chicago, had, in 1950, a corporate population of 51,601, which made it the tenth largest city of the Prairie State. An unofficial estimate for 1955, however, places its corporate population figure at 58,000. At the present time, also, Joliet serves a retail trading area in Will and adjoining counties with a population estimated at nearly 160,000.

The city, with its many industrial plants, railroad yards, warehouses, quarries and riverside docks as well as large downtown district, attractive residential neighborhoods, driveways and parks, occupies both sides of the Des Plaines River. Just above it are the locks and dam at Lockport, where the Des Plaines River, the Chicago Sanitary & Ship Canal and the Calumet-Sag Channel come together to form the great Illinois Waterway. Just below the city are located the Brandon Road locks. More than 8,000,000 tons of shipping pass through these locks each year.

Early famed for its numerous limestone quarries and its Illinois state prison (which now has been largely supplanted by the new Stateville penitentiary and penal farm north of the city), Joliet today has more than 150 manufacturing plants that produce steel and petroleum products, chemicals, wallpaper, machinery, calenders, greeting cards and building stone. Just south of the city lie the great Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants, built by the United States government during World War II.

Joliet is also the point at which many of the Chicago outer belt freight lines shunt their through freight trains around the metropolis on Lake Michigan. Here, too, are the headquarters of numerous barge lines operating Diesel-powered towboats up and down the Illinois Waterway. The city, additionally, is served by leading motor freight carriers and by several modern airports. Its Lennon Wallpaper Mills, and others in the same field, produce nearly fifty per cent of America's wallpaper output.

Aside from its industrial standing, Joliet is noted for its St. Francis Girls' College, which has an average enrollment of 400, and for its Joliet Junior College, oldest junior college in the United States. It has also won wide commendation for its park system, which includes Pilcher Park Arboretum, Bird Haven, Higinbotham Woods, the Public Greenhouse, Hobbs Parkway and Highland Park.

Joliet is the principal community of Joliet Township (see chapter on "Joliet Township"). Among new and old suburbs of Joliet city are Forest Park, Idylside, Ingalls Park, Lidice-Raynor Park, Ridgewood and Rockdale. The total population of Joliet Township in 1950 was 76,689.

CRETE

Located in the eastern portion of the county on historic State 1 and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, the incorporated village of Crete is familiar to thousands of Chicagoans because of its outstanding attraction, Lincoln Fields Race Track. In 1950 the village had a population of 2,298. Within its borders is the Will County Airport. Just northwest of it lies the village of Steger, situated partly in Will and partly in Cook counties.

Crete was laid out in 1849 by Willaim Wood, an early settler who first came to the region in 1837. He operated a wayside inn here for the benefit of travelers on the old Chicago-Vincennes Road, which now is State 1. Today, Crete is one of the two leading communities of Crete Township (the other is Steger), which has a total population of 6,380. First settler of the township is believed to have been David Haner, who came about 1834.

GOODENOW

Another community in Crete Township is the village of Goodenow, with a population of 100. It is located south of Crete on State 1 and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. Goodenow was laid out almost seventy-five years ago by George W. Goodenow, who also served as first postmaster of the village.

FAITHORN

Also in Crete Township is the small village of Faithorn, with a population of seventy-five. It is located south of Crete village on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad. Faithorn is served by the postoffice at Crete.

BEMES

Still another community of Crete Township is the hamlet of Bemes. It, also, is served by the postoffice at Crete. In 1950 the hamlet had a population of forty-seven. It is located southeast of Crete near the Indiana boundary lines.

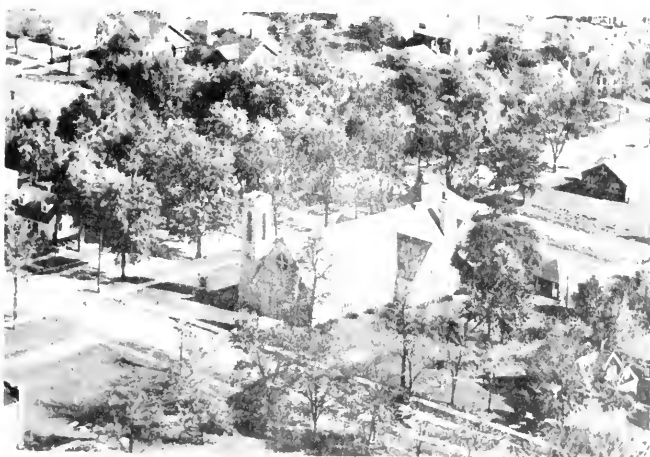

STEGER

Half of the incorporated village of Steger lies in Will County and the other half in Cook County. In 1950 it had a total population of 4,358. Among products manufactured in the village are macaroni, mop sticks and furniture. Steger is located on State I and on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. It was named after John V. Steger, who built a large piano factory here and around which the village grew.

SYMERTON

Just south of the government's great Elwood Ordnance Plant is located the incorporated village of Symerton, which in 1950 had a population of 119. Through the village runs the Wabash Railroad. It was named after William Symerton, an early settler who first came to the area in 1837. Symerton village is the only community in Florence Township, which has a total population of 615. Believed to have been the first settler of the township was Lewis Linebarger, who arrived about 1832 or 1833. Today, more than half of Florence Township is occupied by the grounds of the Elwood Ordnance Plant.

GREEN GARDEN TOWNSHIP

Although without any towns or villages, Green Garden Township, southeast of Joliet city, is noted for its many fertile farms and its quiet, industrious residents. In 1950 it had a total population of 642. Most of the township citizens do their shopping at either Monee, on the east, or Manhattan, on the west. First settler of Green Garden Township was M. F. Sanders, who arrived in 1847. He was the township's first Justice of the Peace. Soon after Sanders came others appeared, among them G. M. Green, the Reverend James Hudson, Daniel Haradon, David McClay and Hiram Twining. All of these earliest settlers were from Vermont.

GOODINGS GROVE

Beginning as one of the earliest settlements of the county, the village of Goodings Grove, northeast of Lockport city, today has a population of fifty. It is served by the postoffice at Lockport. Although the village was named after James Gooding, an early settler, it was actually started by John McMahon, who first arrived in 1831 and sold his claim to James Gooding. In the beginning the place was known as Yankee Settlement. Today, Goodings Grove is the only community in Homer Township, which has a total population of 1,459. First settlers of the township are believed to have been Joseph Johnson and his two sons, who arrived about 1830.

POLYCONIC PROJECTION

ELWOOD

Just south of Elwood village lie the many acres of the great Elwood Ordnance Plant, while west of it is located the Kankakee Ordnance Plant. Both of these large munitions establishments were built by the United States government during World War II at a total cost of $70,000,000. The village of Elwood today has a population of 420. It is situated on the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad and on US66. Elwood was platted in 1854 just after the railroad was built through the area. It was named after Nelson D. Elwood, pioneer county railroad official and mayor of Joliet from 1855 to 1856. Elwood village is the only community in Jackson Township, with a total population of 1,173. First settler of the township was Charles Reed, who came in 1831 and established a settlement known as Reed's Grove.

Second largest city of Will County, and one of the oldest, is Lockport. In 1950 it had a population of 4,955 --- an increase of 42.6 per cent over its 1940 population. The city is located five miles north of Joliet at the head of the Illinois Waterway. Through it pass the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and Alton railroads as well as State 4A and US 7.

First of the series of great locks and dams on the Illinois Waterway --- also known as the Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway --- is located at Lockport. Here, also, is the giant hydroelectric power plant of the Chicago Sanitary District. Lockport was laid out in 1837 by Colonel William Archer, member of the Board of Canal Commissioners, as a headquarters town for the original Illinois and Michigan Canal.

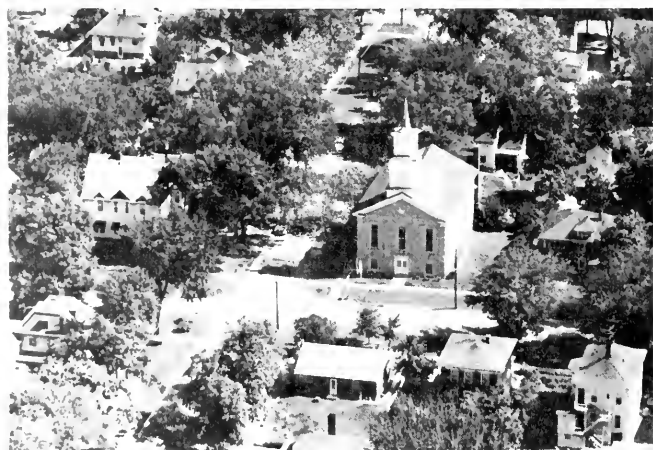

In addition to the waterway locks and power plant, Lockport contains the gas and oil refining works of the Texas Company, which employs more than 2,000 persons. Outstanding among the city's cultural institutions is Lewis College of Science and Technology, presently headed by Rear Admiral Herbert J. Grassie, U.S.N. (retired).

Lockport city is the principal community in Lockport Township, which has a total population of 17,486. First permanent settler of the township was Armstead Runyon, who arrived in 1830. A later settlement that grew up about his cabin came to be known as Runyontown.

In the fertile farming area southeast of Joliet lies the incorporated village of Manhattan, which in 1950 had a population of 728. It is situated at the junction of the Wabash and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroads and through it passes US 52. In addition to numerous retail stores and service establishments, Manhattan contains a postoffice and banking facilities.

This village is the only community of Manhattan Township, which has a total population of 1,298. Parts of the township were annexed to Manhattan village in 1946. First settler of the township was Orin Stevens, who came in 1833 or 1834. He was followed soon afterwards by Ephraim Perkins and his four sons --- Orin, Edward, Ephraim, Jr., and Pliny.

MONEE

Founded more than a hundred years ago, the village of Monee today has a population of 554. It is located in the farm country southwest of Crete and through it pass the Illinois Central Railroad and US 54. Monee was platted in 1853 by August Herbert, an early settler and veteran of the Mexican War. The Illinois Central Railroad was built through here in 1854. Monee is the only community of Monee Township, which has a total population of 1,737. The township was first settled by John S. Dilly, John M. Chase, S. W. Cooper, S. W. Gaines, Nicholas Young and Aaron Bonell, all of whom came from Ohio just after the Black Hawk War of 1832.

NEW LENOX

In the countryside just east of Joliet city, a fertile region drained by Hickory Creek, stands the incorporated village of New Lenox, the population of which in 1950 was 1,235. A shipping center for the many grain, dairy and poultry farms in the vicinity, New Lenox is located at the junction of the Wabash and Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroads. Through it passes US 30. A comparatively new development here is McIntosh Subdivision, composed of "back to the land" dwellers. The subdivision is described in Arden Acres, a novel of the 1930 depression by Jessica Nelson North.

New Lenox was platted in 1858 by George Gaylord, early settler of Lockport city. Today, it is the principal community of New Lenox Township, which has a total population of 3,356. One of the first settlers of the township was Aaron Friend, who came in 1829 as an Indian trader. Other early settlers were William Rice and his son William, Jr., and William Gougar and his son John. When other landseekers arrived, the place became known as the Hickory Creek Settlement.

BRISBANE

Southeast of New Lenox lies the small hamlet of Brisbane. It is served by the postoffice at New Lenox. The hamlet is at the junction of the Wabash and the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroads.

SPENCER

Another small community of New Lenox Township is Spencer. It is situated on the New York Central Railroad. Spencer was laid out in 1856 by Frank Goodspeed and Albert Mudge, owners of the land here.

PEOTONE

Site of the Will County Fair, held each year in August, the incorporated village of Peotone today has a population of 1,395. A number of manufacturing plants here produce fuel storage tanks, steel fabrications and gun pads. Peotone is located sixteen miles north of Kankakee city at the junction of the Illinois Central and Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroads. Through it passes US 54.

The village was founded in 1856 by David Goodwillie. Today, it is the principal community of Peotone Township, which has a total population of 1,982. Although Daniel Booth and James Allen came to this township as early as 1849, they did not remain long. First permanent settlers were Ralph Crawford, Samuel Goodspeed and John C. and James H. Cowing, all of whom arrived in 1855.

ANDRES

Also in Peotone Township is the hamlet of Andres. It is located on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad and on US 45 and 52. Several commodious grain elevators here serve the farms of the area.

PLAINFIELD

It was in the Plainfield vicinity, northwest of Joliet city, that the first settlement in Will County was made. This was a place called Walker's Grove. Named after the Reverend Jesse Walker, who first came here in 1826, the settlement was an outgrowth of an Indian trading post started here about 1790 by a French trader named DuPazhe (after whom the Du Page River and Du Page County are named).

Soon after he came here the Reverend Mr. Walker, known in Illinois history as the "Daniel Boone of Methodism," was joined by his son-in-law, Captain James Walker (no blood relation). The captain later became one of the founding fathers of Will County. Today, Plainfield village has a population of 1,764. The village was laid out in 1834 by Chester Ingersoll, who came from New York. It is the principal community of Plainfield Township, which has a total population of 1,764. First settler of the township --- and of Will County --- was the Reverend Mr. Walker.

CATON FARM

Another community of Plainfield Township is the small hamlet of Caton Farm, with a population of twenty-five. It is located southwest of Plainfield on the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railroad. The hamlet was named after William P. Caton, early settler and farmer.

BRAIDWOOD

During the 1880's, Braidwood was at the center of one of the largest coal mining areas in America. As many as six long coal trains left the city daily, and its population then was 9,000. Among prominent men who came up from the ranks of miners here were John Mitchell, national labor leader; W. D. Ryan, arbitrator of mining disputes; Dan McGlaughlin, union leader and mining executive; and John H. Walker, state legislator.

A young Bohemian immigrant who worked in the Braidwood coal mines was Anton J. Cermak. As is generally known, Cermak grew up to become mayor of Chicago, and, in 1933, was fatally wounded at Miami, Florida, by an assassin who attempted to take the life of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Strip coal mining is still an important activity in the Braidwood area. The city in 1950 had a population of 1,485. It was founded in 1865 by James Braidwood and other coal operators who were first on the scene after a farmer, William Henneberry, discovered coal here in 1864. Today, Braidwood city is the principal community of Reed Township, which has a total population of 1,803. Among first settlers of the township were William Higgins and James Curmea, who came about 1850.

TROY

West of Joliet city, adjacent to the Joliet Municipal Airport, lies the small village of Troy. It is located on the Du Page River and through it passes US 52. The village was founded about 1845 by William Grinton, who built a mill on the river here. At first it was called Grintonville. Today, Troy is the principal community of Troy Township, which has a total population of 1,065. First settlers of the township were Jedediah Woolley, Sr., and Jedediah Woolley, Jr., who arrived about 1835.

BIRDS

Also in Troy Township is the small hamlet of Birds, located south of Troy near the intersection of US 6 and US 66. Through it passes the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad. The hamlet was originally called Bird's Bridge after an early settler here named Bird.

BEECHER

Named after Henry Ward Beecher, famous American minister and brother of the author of Uncle Tom's Cabin and other books, the incorporated village of Beecher today has a population of 956. It is located in the eastern portion of the county on historic State I and on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. Beecher was laid out in 1870 by T. L. Miller, an early stockraiser of the region. Today, it is the principal community of Washington Township, the population of which is 1,871. First settler of the township was Jessee Dutcher, who came in 1851 and established a wayside inn on the old Chicago-Vincennes Road, now State I.

EAGLE LAKE

Another community of Washington Township is the small hamlet of Eagle Lake, with a population of twenty-five. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Beecher. The hamlet was started about 1865 by Herman Lepien, who set up a general store here for the convenience of visitors to nearby Eagle Lake.

RITCHEY

In the Kankakee River country at the southwest corner of the county lies the small village of Ritchey, with a population of forty-two. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Wilmington. Through it passes the Wabash Railroad and State 113N. The village was established at an early day and named after the Ritchey family, members of whom were among its first settlers. Today, Ritchey is the principal community of Wesley Township, which has a total population of 825. First settlers of the township were John Williams, George M. Beckwith, Andrew Pettijohn and Absalom Heyworth, all of whom came just after the Black Hawk War of 1832.

BALLOU

Another community of Wesley Township is the small hamlet of Ballou. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Symerton. The hamlet is located north of Ritchey on the Wabash Railroad.

SOLDIERS WIDOWS HOME

NORMANTOWN

In the northwest corner of the county, on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific and the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroads, may be found the small hamlet of Normantown. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Plainfield. Through the hamlet passes US 30. Normantown is situated in Wheatland Township, which has a total population of 821. First permanent settler of the township is believed to have been the Reverend Isaac G. Foster, who arrived in 1837. Two years later there came Chester Ingersoll, who had earlier laid out the village of Plainfield (In Plainfield Township).

TAMARACK

Only other community in Wheatland Township is the hamlet of Tamarack, located south of Normantown on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific and the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroads. A Tamarack postoffice was opened here more than seventy-five years ago.

WILMINGTON CITY

One of the oldest communities of the county, Wilmington city, south of Joliet, is currently the fastest-growing. Of all of the county's many cities and towns, Wilmington showed the largest increase in population from 1940 to 1950. In the latter year its population was 3,354 --- an increase of 74.6 per cent over its 1940 figure.

Wilmington is located just south of the great Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants built by the United States government during World War II. Within the city itself are a number of manufacturing plants which produce felts, roofing materials and other products. Situated on the Kankakee River, the city is also a shopping center for river summer resorters.

Wilmington city was laid out in 1836 --- the same year that Will County was organized. The founder of the town was Thomas Cox, who also was the first settler of Wilmington Township. Today, Wilmington Township has a total population of 4,306. The township is traversed by the Kankakee River.

LORENZO

Only other community of Wilmington Township is the small hamlet of Lorenzo, located at a point where the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad crosses the Kankakee River. On the other side of the river here are the many acres of the government's Kankakee Ordnance Plant.

WILTON CENTER

Principal community of Wilton Township, southeast of Joliet, is Wilton Center, with a population of fifty. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Manhattan village (in Manhattan Township). Through Wilton Center passes US 52. Although Wilton Center was originally platted in 1860, this was taken up and a new plat made in 1876 by Jabez Harvey. Today the township in which the village is located has a total population of 558.

When the first settlers came to the township, they found it occupied by a small tribe of Indians, who turned out to be friendly. Among the earliest settlers of the township were Franklin Chamberlain, Oliver Chamberlain and James Adams, all of whom came from Canada in 1837. Later, a settlement grew up in the locality called Twelve Mile Grove.

WILTON STATION

Only other community of the township is the small hamlet of Wilton Station, located northeast of Wilton Center on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Manhattan village (in Manhattan Township).

THE ILLINOIS STATE FLAG

STATE FLAG OF ILLINOIS

ILLINOIS' STATE FLAG was officially adopted on July 6, 1915, after a vigorous campaign by Mrs. Ella Park Lawrence, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Early in 1912, Mrs. Lawrence began visiting local D. A. R. chapters throughout Illinois seeking cooperation in promoting selection of an official State banner to place in the Continental Memorial Hall in Washington, D. C. In 1913, Mrs. Lawrence offered a prize of $25.00 to the Illinois D. A. R. chapter submitting the best design for the banner. She also wrote to members of the General Assembly seeking their cooperation.

Four judges were then selected to choose the winning design. Thirty-five designs were submitted and the Rockford Chapter entry was chosen as Illinois' future emblem.

State Senator Raymond D. Mecker introduced the bill which was to legalize the flag. After passage in the Senate it was pushed through the House of Representatives, despite an overcrowded calendar.

The measure automatically became a law July 6, 1915, when the Governor failed to affix his signature to the bill.

The first official flag, made in Washington, D. C., was three by five feet in size, of white silk. Flags were given by Mrs. Lawrence to Secretary of State; Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (to hang in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C.); Rebecca Parke Chapter, Galesburg and the Illinois State Historical Society.

Visitors to Springfield cannot fail to notice the State Banner flanking the Stars and Stripes in the Rotunda at the State House. In the same juxtaposition it appears in the office of the Secretary of State. It is flown on ceremonial days by numerous patriotic bodies throughout the State. For officials and the public alike it stands as a reminder of our greatness as a State and our pride in our membership in the United States of America.

To estimate the number of plants required for an acre at any given distance, multiply the distance between the rows by the distance between the plants, which will give the number of square feet allotted to each plant and divide the number of square feet in an acre (43,560) by this number. The quotient will be the number of plants required.

GRAIN MEASURE.

To find the capacity of a Bin or Wagon-bed; multiply the cubic feet by 8 (tenths). For great accuracy, add ½ of a bushel for every 100 cubic feet.

To find the cubic ft., multiply the length, width and depth together.

Find the capacity of a Bin 4 ft. wide, 5 ft. deep, and 15 ft. long.

To get the exact answer 1 bu. is added for the 300 cubic ft.

$$4 \times 5 \times 15 = 300 \text{ cubic ft.}$$

$$.8$$

$$240 + 1 = 241 \text{ bus. exact ans.}$$

How many bus. will a Wagon-bed hold, 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide, 18 in. or 1½ ft. deep?

Ans. A Bed 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide will hold 2 bu. for every in. in depth.

$$1 \frac{1}{2} \times 3 \times 10 = 45 \text{ cubic feet}$$

$$.8$$

EAR CORN MEASURE.

To find the contents of a Corn crib; multiply the cubic feet by 4 and divide the product by 9.

Find the contents of a Corn crib 18 ft. long, 7 ft. wide and 8 ft. high.

*NOTE—This allows 2¼ cubic ft. for a bu. It is the rule most generally used, and will hold out in ordinary good corn, even if measured at the time it is cribbed.

$$7 \times 8 \times 18 = 1008 \text{ cubic feet}$$

$$\frac{4}{9} 1008$$

$$9) 4032$$

TWO SIMPLE RULES FOR FINDING THE CAPACITY OF ROUND BINS, IN BUSHELS.

Where the dimensions measure exactly in feet; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .63.

Where the dimensions measure in inches; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .000365.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED ON THE FLOOR IN THE FORM OF A CONE.

Square the depth and square the slant height, in inches. Take their difference and multiply by the depth, in inches. Multiply this product by .00048. The result will be the contents, in bushels.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED AGAINST A STRAIGHT WALL.

Square one-half of the depth and proceed as in the previous rule.

Doubling the diameter of a pipe increases its capacity four times.

Double riveting is from 16 to 20 per cent stronger than single.

One cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about 53 pounds.

One cubic foot of bituminous coal weighs from 47 to 50 pounds.

One ton of coal is equivalent to two cords of wood for steam purposes.

A gallon of water (U. S. Standard) weighs 8 $\frac{1}{8}$ pounds and contains 231 cubic inches.

A cubic foot of water contains 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ gallons, 1,728 cubic inches, and weighs 62 $\frac{1}{2}$ pounds.

Each nominal horse power of a boiler requires 30 to 35 pounds of water per hour.

To sharpen dull files lay them in dilute sulphuric acid until they are eaten deep enough.

A horse power is equivalent to raising 33,000 pounds one foot per minute, or 550 pounds one foot per second.

The average consumption of coal for steam boilers is 12 pounds per hour for each square foot of grate surface.

To find the pressure in pounds per square inch of a column of water multiply the height of the column in feet by .434.

Steam rising from water at its boiling point (212 degrees) has a pressure equal to the atmosphere (14.7 pounds to the square inch).

To evaporate one cubic foot of water requires the consumption of 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ pounds of ordinary coal, or about 1 pound of coal to 1 gallon of water.
